Background

This EUCPN Work Programme succeeds that of December 2017. The Work Programme 2019 is in accordance with Article 4 of the Council Decision 2009/902/JHA and Article 12 of the Rules of Procedures for the EUCPN. As foreseen in the Multiannual Strategy for the EUCPN, this document defines the activities of the Network to be completed in 2019 in order to promote the achievement of the strategic goals, namely:

- A) To be a point of reference for the target groups of the Network.
- B) To disseminate qualitative knowledge on crime prevention.
- C) To support crime prevention activities at national and local level.
- D) To contribute to the EU policy and strategy of crime prevention and to contribute to various aspects of crime prevention at the EU level in respect of strategic priorities of EU.

The target groups of the EUCPN are:

- Practitioners and policymakers at the local level
- Practitioners and policymakers at the national level
- Relevant agencies, organisations, working groups etc. at European Union level

The present Trio

The present Trio

The EU Trio Presidency Romania, Finland and Croatia will focus on 'criminal reoccurring behavior within EU priorities'.

During 2019:

➤ The Romanian Presidency will be focusing on victimization of minors – online and offline. Preventing victimization of minors has been, for the last years, one of the priority areas of the Romanian Police. Minors represent a category of beneficiaries with a high risk of vulnerability, both in virtual and in real life, regardless of the type of crimes which might target them. In this context, it appears imperative to steadily focus prevention activities on children, according with some characteristics of this target group: their personality is being built, which gives a higher probability of registering positive results, the preventive approaches can be assimilated to the educational process, related to the fact that most interventions are carried out in or involve schools. There is, also, the possibility of involving teachers and parents in preventive actions.

Nowadays children spend more time online and from an younger age. In addition to its advantages, the internet also poses specific threats to children. Romania will envisage a way of approaching crime prevention in the future in order to respond to the new threats to children's safety (both online and offline) and will suggest/ promote a new model of crime prevention for the future and a new concept of policing in this field – Police of the Future. Preventing victimization of minors should take in consideration both protecting children from harmful web content, teaching them how to ensure data protection and to deal with different online threats, and also using the internet to reach children and convince them to adopt protection measures. Due to the increasing spread of internet, the amount of time children spend online and the huge influence internet has on children, using the internet in crime prevention becomes a priority. Online awareness raising campaigns, implication of vloggers, social networks or digital games on safety are necessary tools in crime prevention that Police of the Future will rely on.

Approaching online safety also comes in line with the big interest that Romanian Presidency will pay to digital data within LEWP and COSI workprogram, taking in consideration that EUCPN is an associated network to LEWP.

➤ Finland's presidency will focus on preventing of drug related juvenile delinquency. The offending of the adolescents has diminished in many European countries. Even though increasingly few young people commit serious crimes, the repeated offending accumulates on a small group of young people. This group of youngsters with various social and mental health problems, substance abuse, school drop-outs, unemployment, lacking life-skills, experiences of victimization and risk of social exclusion has been recognized as a target group of crime prevention activities. These various symptoms of persistent offending and deviant behavior have driven them to marginal positions and social exclusion.

The majority of the adult persistent offenders have already committed crime as adolescents. To identify youths at risk and directing them to services will prevent vicious circles of crimes, prevent victimization and reduce costs for society.

Overview of the presidencies

Romanian Presidency, January 2019 – June 2019

The Romanian Presidency will organize 2 Executive Committee meetings and 1 Board Meeting<sup>1</sup>. The conference linked to the Board Meeting will approach the theme preventing victimization of minors – online and offline.

Development of criteria for evaluation of interventions aimed at prevention of (religiously motivated) extremism

Project submitter (Member State):

Germany

Project leader(s):

German National Centre for Crime Prevention / German Forum for Crime Prevention

Project partner(s):

N/A

Project description:

The project consists of two modules:

- (1) Indicators of radicalisation are developed using a qualitative and participative approach. The main hypothesis postulates that indicators of radicalisation are either “universal” or “context-specific”. We therefore carry out focus groups with staff from various institutions including primary and secondary prevention, refugee arrival centres, prisons, police and secret services, religious leaders and experts, adolescents, and psychiatric-/ psychological experts. Indicators which are described across the majority of focus groups will be considered “universal” and indicators which are discussed only in specific focus groups are considered “context-specific”. To reduce the number of criteria we intend to apply a Delphi-method asking experts to rate the relevance of the criteria in their field.
- (2) The instrument will contain operationalised criteria. Psychometric properties such as inter-item-correlations, Cronbach’s alpha, inter-rater-agreement will be tested before application in research in secondary and/ or tertiary prevention.

Objectives project:

The development of indicators of radicalisation (please see above).

Project outcome:

A scientifically sound, standardised instrument for the assessment of indicators of radicalisation which can be used in secondary and tertiary prevention.

Start and end project:

1st of March 2017 – 31st of December 2019

Timescales and key milestone dates:

31st of March 2018: Development of the instrument

The project will not be focused on studying the phenomenon of radicalization but on developing policy recommendations and practical solutions for end-users. Thus, efforts will concentrate on analyzing the current status of the prevention of CVE in Europe, systematizing the available information and competencies in order to support authorities' operations and strategic decision-making, and strengthening multidisciplinary cooperation in preventing violent radicalization. In addition to research work, the project involves exchange programs for authorities, practices, courses and pilot projects.

Objectives project:

MINDb4ACT will contribute to the improvement of current counter-violent extremism policies (CVEs) in the countries represented in the consortium (Austria, Belgium Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy Poland, Spain and United Kingdom) and the generation of new ones connecting through collaboration ecosystems (innovative, open, participatory, user-centred environments) to co-design interventions such as research actions, exchanges, strategic-policy exercises, training courses and pilot projects based on social innovation and civic engagement schemes (a community of practice of 1,500 people). All actions will be developed in 5 specific domains: prisons and judiciary system; migration hotspots and asylum centres; schools; cities (peri-urban contexts) as well as the internet and media. A special contribution of the project will be the integration of technology based practical solutions with the contribution of the industry.

Project outcome:

The project will produce recommendations for the development of current practices, as well as practical solutions for stakeholders, end-users and decision-makers in the security sector. On the one hand, the project will have an impact by advancing the knowledge transfer and capacities enhancement of LEAs and first line-practitioners, on the other hand, a number of validated pilot projects, with involvement of relevant stakeholders and researchers will advance the understanding of the whole cycle of policy-design at strategic, coordination and implementation levels.

Shelter for homeless animals in Chorzów

The "Psia Chata" shelter in Chorzów

Project description:

The "Eco Patrol" project is an innovative on its scale approach to security through a combination of typical prevention in the prevention of crime and threats, education of safe attitudes with environmental issues care for the environment and animal protection and pro-health prophylaxis. Care for residents and improving the quality of life of the city authorities in Chorzów resulted in a multi-faceted approach to safety, from education in safe attitudes in contact with animals, education in the field of animal protection, waste segregation to ecological hybrid police cars purchased by the project to patrol streets by police officers from Chorzów and the purchase of an opacimeter, a special device for measuring pollutants emitted by cars, which will allow policemen to eliminate vehicles poisoning the environment from roads. Chorzów focuses on eco, using the potential of its location, in the center of the Silesian agglomeration, with its green lungs - multi-hectare areas of the Silesian Park, where eco-policemen perform service on horseback and in bicycle patrols.

Objectives project:

The objective of the project is to shape pro-ecological attitudes, care for nature and animals, acquire the ability to safely behave in contact with animals and to shape a positive image of the policeman and his service. An innovative element of the project is a multi-faceted approach to the issue of safety and human functioning in the present world. The project is based on two pillars: education and action. Education combines traditional preventive elements, for example learning safe attitudes in contact with an aggressive animal, caring for and caring for animals, animal protection, and educating the need for waste segregation and protection of the atmosphere. Program participants will get acquainted with the specificity of the service of a Horse Constable officer and a guide of a service dog. The project's essence is the use of the educational room at the Horse Riding Station in Chorzów, which naturally strengthens the contact between residents and nature, promotes education of pro-ecological attitudes, providing them with unique, long-lasting impressions. The preventive content transmitted is strengthened by contact with animals - police dogs and horses, and all this takes place in the fairy-tale scenery of the eco-station.

Project outcome:

The effects of the program are primarily to sensitize the participants and acquire the ability to respect and care for the environment in the aspect of broadly understood security. Educational effects include awareness of animal threats and implementation of safety rules in contact with animals, acquisition of the ability to recognize emotions human and animal, shaping behavior skills in contact with an aggressive dog, sensitizing to the fate of animals, learning the principles of caring for and caring for animals. The youngest participants in the Eco-Patrol project will get to know Segreguś, the Chorzów guide to the waste world, the protagonist of the educational book, from which children learn how to properly segregate rubbishes, why waste containers have colors and and what waste should be thrown into a specific container. During the implementation of the program, particular emphasis is put on the use of activating methods: demonstrations and exercises, and contact with live animals - police dogs and horses. Such educational and preventive activities allow children to look at animals from a different perspective. Involvement in the program of younger children and seniors allows for intergenerational integration, bringing great educational values.

Project description:

This project (now at 8th edition) appeared from our wish to find new and more efficient ways to send our messages to youth. We found out that a discussion between them and another young man with a bad experience of has a stronger impact that a presentation from a teacher or police officer. The experts from prison choose carefully those prisoners that can provide the optimal message. The good impact and feed/back (questionnaire completed by every participant of the first edition of the project has determinate the participation of almost all the high schools from the county. This is another kind of feedback - the schools considering that the activities worth the effort of transporting students from other towns to Tg Mures. At the beginning of the school year, we make a plan of meetings that take place at the police station and the crime prevention officers are the moderator.

Objectives project:

- Providing information concerning the consequences of breaking the law a different levels – legal, personal, social, family and community to youth between 15 and 19 years old from people close to their age that had specific experience of life of a young person that ended with tragic consequences
- Providing to youth the real important values of a good life: respect for the law, for family – parents and their best intentions - for the people around you and for work: money isn't the most important thing in life and they can't buy freedom when you lose it. Nothing worth lose your freedom

This edition we are expecting again almost 1.000 youth at 19 meetings, to leave with an important lesson learned. In a continuing growing economy and society, such as the one in Europe, digital economies and the Internet are playing a major role. Cheaper and higher broadband quality and new affordable mobile devices provide internet accessibility to more and more households and individuals. However, young people are not properly educated regarding safety and can be exposed to a number of risks and threats that can range from cyber bullying to illegal child sexual abuse, racism and xenophobia. It is, therefore, of vital importance that all children, their parents and teachers are encouraged to take advantage of the internet affordances with safe, responsible and ethical use of the digital technologies. CYberSafety brings together major national stakeholders in order to create a safe internet culture, empowering creative, innovative and critical citizens in the digital society.

The operation of the Hotline will ensure that all actors can report illegal content or actions related to child sexual abuse material, racism and xenophobia. At the same time all illegal cases will be forwarded to the responsible body/ agency for action. CyberSafety will add to the existing work in Cyprus by focusing on new needs deriving from the developments on national and European level.

Project outcome:

The awareness activity aims at informing and educating the CYberSafety target groups, mainly children along with teachers and parents, while at the same time a number of awareness tasks target the wider public. This is done by actively engaging young children in the process and by the devise of inventive, attention-grabbing and informative awareness campaigns using the most appropriate media in close cooperation with other core services, building on enhanced digital resource centers, taking into account best practice and experience from previous years, in Cyprus as well as in other countries.

Helping services are aimed at children, adolescents, parents, teachers, and other professionals, providing advice and support on issues related to the safe, responsible and ethical use of the internet and other digital media. The Helpline operators provide, among others, advice and support on issues such as:

- Cyberbullying

An experience of seven years enables us to believe it is as a normal and useful approach as the other school contests (Romanian language, Mathematics, Foreign languages), provided nowadays society when safety is one of the valuables of the modern human being.

Project description:

Security Olympics is the only practical contest which has as a main purpose and promotes team work: child-parent-teacher. This competition is aimed at children from all educational cycles. In 2018, the project is also addressed to preschoolers.

Children made over 100 safety layouts every year (houses, cars, playgrounds, schools, malls, games). They also created over 100 detective stories written by children published in four tomes (which they signed and gave to the contestants), dozens of posters and photos on crime prevention.

The safety features and the fact that children have and use a proactive behaviour were most important for the contest judges.

Kids acquired the ability of identifying personal and community safety features as well as to use them when needed. For example, when designing model houses they have learned about the importance of interphone and public lighting. They have studied the role of a zebra crossing, they have learned about the role of zebra and light in traffic. While designing their own model cars they thought of antitheft mechanical and electric systems.

In 2019 the competition will consist of: designing the layout of a safe mall, creating detective stories (tome no. 5), launching a public information campaign to prevent alcohol and drug use while driving. We hope EUPCN will support us to turn it into an international contest, too.

Objectives project:

Project Goals

1. To identify vulnerable situations in different life contexts
2. To promote the partnership between students-parents-teachers as an element for increasing civic responsibility
3. to develop practical skills in designing individual and communitarian safety solutions

Project outcome:

The project results have been analyzed both in qualitative and quantitative terms.

Talking about quality, solidarity and cohesion have been promoted as the teams of students are guided by teachers and parents. The number of teams that signed up for the contest increased every year so the project is popular. Moreover, parents and educators supported the teams in producing and displaying their projects. They combined synergistically knowledge from several different areas of school curriculum (Geography, Mathematics, literature, Art).

The project had the effect of increasing self-esteem and respect for the others' work, as children are the main supporters of distinguished projects. Children from the social protection system have enlisted their projects as well. They also won prizes and their success was an important motivational element to overcome a possible traumatic situation.

From the quantity point of view in 2019 the project is implemented for the eighth year. Over 3000 children and 2000 teachers and parents took part in the competition until now.

Their pieces of work can be a source of inspiration for real estate developers, car producers, games designers, tourism agencies, local administration, the police, etc, as the projects have a realistic execution.

Start and end project:

The project started in 2011. It is resumed every year.

Project 33

Project title:
Cyber jungle

Project proposer:
Poland

Project leader(s):
The Municipal Police in Szczecin

Project supporter(s):
The Schools Headmasters

Project scope:

The "Cyber jungle" project is aimed at the younger Internet users, their carers as well as people taking part in their education and attitudes shaping. Its mission is to improve the overall security of the Internet users, especially those who are not properly prepared for it.

This set includes the surrounding reality: young people and children do not know the hazard and their parents - who in the accompanying circumstances had not followed the development of this medium

- are remaining in ignorance with respect to its capabilities and threats. It is a form of family dysfunction in terms of proper childcare.

Therefore, the security is based on many factor program components and is constructed of three main elements:

1. Increasing awareness of the program participants about the perils related with the Internet used by children and young people as well as improving the safety of its users. It is also one of the objectives of the program.
2. Activating parental control over minors benefiting from the resources and engineering data tools.
3. Introduction of the correlation element in the usual utilization of Internet resources by individual users in a secure direction to each family or group of users.

According to this plan different security levels are achieved by developing the ability to accurately search for specific information preventing contact with the unwanted content. This problem affects mostly youngest children, who should be able to precisely follow specific knowledge resources without the risk of contact with violence, pornography, etc.

- Older users should have the ability to assess legal aspects of their activity on the network often balancing on the edge of admissibility.
- Another area of impact is developing capacity to assess the risk when establishing virtual relationships and ability to conduct correspondence in a secure manner, i.e. without disclosure of sensitive data as well as creative and save use of defence mechanisms against process of grooming.
- The whole project includes the need to develop mechanisms for sharing resources and information technology tools with the minors and their guardians in such a way that the use, for example, of the social network did not facilitate the acquisition of knowledge about the family.
- The program is implemented through meetings and workshops with minors, and then with their carers and educators. This gives them the opportunity to acquire knowledge, which parents and guardians do not have, and use it during meetings that are conducted in a form of small talks with the use of multimedia technologies.

"Cyber jungle" handbook for parents was also published as well as "Cyber jungle" and "Cyber security" educational materials for parents and people interested in the issues. These publications contain information that introduce people who had no contact with the network before into the secrets of virtual reality. This message shows concepts for the average reader with a view to identify opportunities to supervise minors' online activities.

Project outcomes:

Multimedia tools including instruments of social communication within the Internet might form the germ of crime. They allow young people to gain knowledge about the world, help to create their own system of values, shape attitudes and skills.

Due to their role in the modern world, especially in the education, they should be seen not only in terms of inexpressible possibilities and creating enormous opportunities, but also in terms of the hazards and risks and the potential use by criminal environment. Therefore, the objective of the project is to improve awareness of criminal responsibility for the behaviour exhibited on the Internet having comprehensive hallmarks of offences. The premises of the plan are also directed at widening the knowledge of adult users such as parents and educators about all the popular environments used by young people in a risky manner, which in turn grants them to work out effective supervision over them and shape their proper attitudes.

An important aspect of the plan is also teaching the ability to protect sensible information that can be used as a tool for criminal actions of certain groups.

The program calls for evolution of the ability to measure the importance of data transferred on the web (for criminal circles) about actual life. The adult participants have the opportunity (in the form of workshops) to understand how to have correspondence oriented for sensitive data acquisition, in a veiled way.

- Familiarise themselves with websites and portals used by young people and together with the leader conduct risk analysis for establishing the risky relationships, especially by younger users.
- They familiarize themselves with popular games and their narrative. They participate in a multimedia show that in an attractive way enriches their knowledge about the Internet.

This leads ultimately to establishing the authority of the parent/guardian oriented to the virtual reality, who becomes a partner for younger generation in the conversation.

So built family relationships allow common online activity, particularly in the field of social networks in such a direction that the information put up on them by individual household members do not complement each other and does not turn into a reliable image of the family in the network and the actual world which contributes to eliminate the dangers presented by the Internet.

Timescales and key milestone dates:

The level of execution of the project is measured by assessing the number of interested schools in terms of divisions and statistical information concerning the act committed by juvenile offenses including acts committed via the Internet in Szczecin.

- In 2014 we conducted 17 meetings,
- In 2015 we conducted 45 meetings
- In 2016 we will conduct in total 69 meetings

Crime Statistics:

- In 2014 we had a significant fall compared to 2013 in numbers of offenses committed, from over 400 to 303 as well as the number of juvenile offenders from 208 to 126.
- In 2015 we reported slightly raise to 310 offenses committed by 142 perpetrators.

- In the first half of 2016 this tendency remains when it comes to numbers of offenses as we reported 248 of them in the first half of the year, at the end of November 2016 our statistics close as 384 offenses, on the other side the number of perpetrators is falling, in the first half of the year we had 84 juvenile offenders 128 at the end of November 2016.

A downward movement is clearly visible. It should be mentioned that in the above period, we do not report common offenses committed via the Internet made by juvenile perpetrators, i.e.:

- Criminal offenses of article 286 § 1 of the Penalty Code (fraud),
- Art. 267 of the Penalty Code (theft of data),
- Art. 268 of the Penalty Code (violation of the right to learn the information through the demolition, removal, damage or change in the records).

The project is still in the implementation phase, which followed the needs reported by institutions interested in taking part in the plan. The potency of the meetings can provide information from the schools indicating the change in students' attitudes and common and consistent functioning of parents in improving parental control and a reduction of offenses given by minors despite the growth in Internet usage. Execution of the project is proceeding in conformity with its aims.

Funding issues:

With regard to project preparation and the training of tutors it is not possible to calculate the exact costs due to the fact that the coordinators realize the project while performing their duties.

The project is planned to be financed with own funds of The Municipal Police in Szczecin.

Notes:

"Cyber jungle" preventive program is an initiative aimed at children and young people and their carers. The program is designed to raise the level of safety. It is carried out in a form of meetings and workshops with children, youth and their parents, carers and teachers. A simple, accessible language and talks about difficult issues are one of the advantages of the program. The people conducting the meetings communicate content tailored to the age and educational level of the audience. The project consists of several components. The first task is to improve awareness of the risks associated with the Internet use by children and young people as well as improving the safety of its users. The second element is to activate parental control over children who use the Internet and develop mechanisms for joint use of it by children and their caregivers. The third one is to improve relations inside the family and build the authority of the parent who is familiar with the specifics of virtual environments of the youth. This way he/she becomes a partner for the teenager in a conversation about the problems.

Project 34

Project title:

Drawing on the right side of the brain

Main theme:

Preparing inmates for re-entry.

Project purpose and outcome (in two sentences):

In order to prepare inmates for reintegration to the society the National Crime Prevention Council of Hungary started a project to help them develop their social skills and self-confidence.

Project submitter (Member State):

Hungary

Project leader(s):

National Crime Prevention Council

Project partner(s):

Hungarian Prison Service

Project description:

The program aims not only to develop drawing skills but to deepen self-consciousness and to ensure a more realistic self-esteem. The success-experience that can be easily reached by the inmates strengthens their self-confidence and helps to dissolve their inhibitions and tensions. Working in groups subserves better social skills such as empathy, tolerance, the ability to liaise comfortably with people and to pay attention to others. Due to this activity prisoners' focus becomes more concentrated and longer while their visual perception, fantasy and aesthetic sense evolve. The Council provides courses not only directly for the inmates but for the reintegration-officers too who in our intentions will be able to organize and facilitate these courses on their own. Until now we trained more than 50 reintegration officers and reached more than a thousand inmates through the program.

Objectives of the project:

To prepare inmates for reentry by developing their self-esteem and social skills.

To teach prison officers to be able to organize and facilitate these courses on their own.

Project outcome:

Those inmates who participated in this project will learn that they are able to achieve their goals. They will have the ability to work as a member of a team and will have a more realistic self-esteem.

Start and end project:

The project started in 2014 and the implementation is ongoing.

Funding (total budget and type of funding (e.g. ISEC, EUCPN Fund,...)):

Re-Action program

Main theme:

Interactive outdoor program for secondary school students in order to introduce basic knowledge about crime prevention; about the work of police, fire department, prison service etc.

Project purpose and outcome (in two sentences):

The highlighted purposes of the Program:

1. Deepening the knowledge of crime prevention and building active knowledge
2. Moderating aggression in schools
3. Preventing crimes and drug abuse among young people
4. Promoting positive attitude

Project submitter (Member State):

Hungary

Project leader(s):

National Crime Prevention Council

Project partner(s):

Police, Hungarian Prison Service, National Directorate General for Disaster Management, Secondary schools

Project description:

The Re-Action Program started in 2014 as the successor of the Interactive Police Program. The National Crime Prevention Council mainly chooses those schools to participate where there are trained police officers or teachers introducing basic knowledge about crime prevention to students. Finding a proper place is an important part of the selection procedure, because it is an outdoor program. In every single occasion the program reaches about 200-250 students, their parents and their teachers as well. Volunteer students, certain police forces and vigilantes help us carrying out the program.

The program starts with interactive workshops in minor groups. In these groups different types of topics are discussed, for example first aid, decisions in different situations, on-line risks, drug prevention, control of surroundings, recognizing and handling conflicts, education through experience.

After these workshops, everybody comes to the common place, where the moderator tells short stories to introduce the following shows: self-defence, police measure tactics, and measures of police dogs. The public is involved in introducing stories related to crime prevention.

After the shows different kinds of situations are played. The actors are from the public and the helpers. These stories show everyday life situations in which there are decision points, where it can be shown, how a decision may affect the future. These situations are related to drugs, heist, harassment, affray and on-line harassment. Via these situations we can teach the students about prevention as an experience. The situations are able to teach to understand the perspectives both of the victim and the perpetrator. Such performances can make the students face not only crimes but the circumstances as well, for example an injury, the risk of using drugs, injury of a vehicle, or a first step towards prison.

At the end of the program there is a simulation of a road accident. The wrecked car is set on fire and is quenched by firefighters.

The secret success element of the Program is the way we show how everyday life situations can turn into crimes. We would like to show how the situation affects the victim or the perpetrator, and how we can change our decision to make a win-win situation.

Objectives project:

1. Deepening the knowledge of crime prevention and building active knowledge
2. Moderating aggression in schools
3. Preventing crimes and drug abuse among young people
4. Promoting positive attitude

Project outcome:

Since 2015 there have been 19 events with the participation of 25 schools (14 secondary schools and 11 elementary schools). We have reached 4346 students and 329 teachers so far.

Start and end project:

The Re-Action Program started in 2014 and the implementation is ongoing.

Timescales and key milestone dates:

Because its complexity (lots of participants) the program is being organized only 4 times a year.

Funding (total budget and type of funding (e.g. ISEC, EUCPN Fund,...)):

The National Crime Prevention Council finances 100 % of the budget.
Each occasion costs 600 000 HUF.

National action day '1 day without'

Main theme:

Domestic burglaries

Project partner(s):

Belgian Local and Federal Police, provinces, towns and boroughs, private associates.

Project description:

The '1 day without' initiative aims at sensitizing citizens to the preventive part they can play in the fight against burglaries. Putting the clocks back one hour is retained as a strong moment in the campaign. In 2016, the latter focuses on senior citizens, a more vulnerable target group in terms of burglary prevention.

Every year, over 300 prevention initiatives are implemented by local prevention partnerships, police and prevention services, tenant and resident associations, private partnerships and private individuals.

There is a wide variety of prevention actions: afternoon information-tea for senior citizens, articles in the municipal information papers, neighbourhood watch actions in cooperation with the neighbourhood police constable, poster campaigns and leaflet distribution actions, etc.

An operational consultation group made up of provincial, police or municipal associates meets on a regular basis and puts many means of communication at these associates' disposal.

Objectives project:

We can distinguish 4 main objectives within the project:

- to encourage citizens to think about what they can do to increase their security AND awaken their alertness;
- to step up the social cohesion in the streets, neighbourhoods and districts by spurring on the inhabitants to work together on prevention;
- to encourage local (provincial, zonal, municipal, ...) initiatives;
- to Publicize the '1 day without' action

Project outcome:

In order to achieve the aforementioned goals, we have made joint venture deals with different partners: the provincial authorities, boroughs, the Belgian Local and Federal Police, but also with private associates.

To publicize as much as possible the national action day, we have also developed a communication campaign comprising various communication tools. We have our own official '1 day without' website where everybody can post their actions, but we are also active on Facebook, Twitter and offer a spectrum of posters, folders and postal cards. Furthermore, we also have a promo one-reeler and we offer a genuine '1 day without' app.

For the 2016 edition, we have decided to lay emphasis on one specific target group: senior citizens. Elderly people are characterized by increased vulnerability. We have conceived a specific folder with 7 prevention tips against theft by deception and struck new partnership deals with senior citizen organizations and associations.

Start and end project:

Start: 11/12/2014

The project is still ongoing as we organize a yearly national action day. Up to now, there has already been 3 editions. The latest edition took place on Friday 28 October 2016.

Timescales and key milestone dates:

Since this year, '1 day without' is to take place when clocks are being put back one hour for the winter. This is indeed traditionally one of the most burglary-sensitive periods of the year. The following editions' further development shall also continue in the same way.

Funding (total budget and type of funding (e.g. ISEC, EUCPN Fund,...)):

The project-related costs vary every year according to the tools developed (app, videos, gadgets,...) and are divided up as follows for the year 2015 (price excl. VAT):

- Hosting the '1daywithout' websites (in French & Dutch): €500
- Creation of 150 plastic covers and roll-ups: €9525
- Creation of 30,000 magnets geared towards senior citizens : €2850
- Making of 10 visuals + translation : €5400
- Cooperation with a social innovation agency: €5320

To live prepared as a visually impaired

Main theme:

Helping blind and partially-sighted persons to develop their self-defense abilities

Project purpose and outcome (in two sentences):

In order to help blind and partially-sighted persons the National Crime Prevention Council of Hungary prepared a special crime prevention program to teach these vulnerable people to develop their self-defense abilities.

Project submitter (Member State):

Hungary

Project leader(s):

National Crime Prevention Council

Project partner(s):

National Institute for Blind Persons

Nursery Schools, Primary Schools, Special Vocational Schools, Unitary Methodology Institute and Youth and Children's Home for Blind Persons

Project description:

Increasingly more and more people suffer a stroke, from illnesses or accidents which can cause worsening vision or even blindness. These people would like to continue with their lives but their changed situation brings new challenges for them. It is necessary to relearn how to use traffic, the everyday routine, and a new area appears: self-defense. They have to prepare themselves for the fact that they are more exposed to dangers.

For this reason, the National Crime Prevention Council of Hungary prepared a special crime prevention program for blind and partially-sighted persons. The Council would like to teach them to develop their self-defense abilities through trainings. These trainings put great emphasis on avoiding theft, robbery, tricky thieves and teach proper and safe credit card usage. In connection with internet safety, the Council would like to direct their attention to the risks of false information, shopping and social networks. The addiction and safety of entertainment are important topics for young people especially.

The trainings provide opportunity to develop the participants' self-knowledge and the identification of their own resources. Based on these practices, they may get ready for dangerous situations with the use of the practiced alternative acts. The programs run in special training schools for blind and partially-sighted persons and also in the State Institute for Blinds.

The participants have evaluated the program as a positive experience and indicated their intention to participate in future programs as well. The long-term aim of the National Crime Prevention Council is to spread this method by preparing the specialists dealing with blind and partially-sighted persons to hold similar trainings to these at-risk groups.

Objectives of the project:

Prepare blind and partially-sighted persons – as potential victims – to recognize possible emergency situations and develop their self-defense abilities.

Project outcome:

After the training blind and partially-sighted persons will be able to recognize emergency situations, to choose the optimal prevention method and to use it as a skill.

Start and end project:

The project started in spring 2016 and the implementation is ongoing.

Timescales and key milestone dates:

The project contains two trainings a month.

In August 2016 some specialists together with blind and partially-sighted persons took part in a training. During that they learned new aspects and methods, so they can share them in their institute and adopt them in their work.

Funding (total budget and type of funding (e.g. ISEC, EUCPN Fund,...)):

Total budget: 1.260.000 HUF

The National Crime Prevention Council finances 100 % of the budget.

Contact details project:

The project is connected with the rehabilitation and integration project of the National Institute for Blind Persons.

Safety in the Public Sphere

Main theme:

Crime prevention related to violence against women in the public space

Project purpose and outcome (in two sentences):

As the subjective feeling of security in Austria is decreasing despite an objective reduction in crime, the purpose of this particular project is both to reassure women and to provide them with information on ways in which they can avoid becoming the victim of a crime on their way home/while going out for a walk, etc. The outcome that we can comment on so far is a notable positive reception and a substantial increase in the awareness of possible sources of danger and how to act in the case of an emergency.

Project submitter (Member State):

Austria

Project leader(s):

Evelyn Liebhart

Project partner(s):

The project is conducted with selected third parties in order to assure quality and the successful organization of information events.

Project description:

The project focuses on information events and produces materials that convey important advice and tips on proper ways to react towards an aggressor and how to prepare oneself in advance to the occurrence of an attack (or how to avoid the attack in the first place). The information communicated this way also summarizes important legal aspects pertaining to self-defense and how to search for a self-defense course that will prove to be useful in the case of an attack. The proper way to contact the police and when it is necessary to do so are also discussed.

Objectives project:

The primary objective of the project is to empower women in the public sphere and to give them the necessary confidence in order to feel safe in a public setting. In order to do so, potential sources of danger (also relating to drugs put in drinks in order to knock out victims) are mentioned and discussed collectively. In other words, strengthening the awareness of possible victims and to prepare them for the case of an emergency are key goals to be achieved by the project.

Project outcome:

In order to discuss the immediate outcome of the project, we are able to state that the audiences at our information events are continuously growing and that partnerships and related activities are intensifying at a constant rate. We also received very positive feedback from the attendants of our information events and can say with confidence that the number of people we are able to reach is growing continuously.

Start and end project:

The project started in the 2nd quarter of 2016; it is currently being implemented in a standardized process across Austria.

Timescales and key milestone dates:

The concept-phase of the project took place in the 3rd and 4th quarter of 2016

The implementation phase of the project started in May 2017

The standardization and expansion of the project to encompass all of Austria began November 2017

Project 43

Project title:

National Security Threat Map (NSTM)

Main theme:

Introduction of an interactive tool for informing the Police about local security threats in order to cooperate with the society in eliminating socially unwanted condition. (Topics: Community Policing, Crime Mapping)

Webpage: http://www.policja.pl/pol/mapa-zagrozen-bezpiecze/33880\_dok.html

Project purpose and outcome (in two sentences):

The main purpose of the NSTM is to act as an information exchange platform between the Police and the society regarding threats, made to i.a. activate the local societies and to verify and optimise the Police organisational structures.

The evaluation of this tool, performed on the basis of remarks from the side of the society enabled to perceive real threats to the local societies that can be eliminated by the Police or other institutions, and the effects can be quickly noticed by the society.

Project submitter (Member State):

Poland

Project leader(s):

Bureau of Prevention of the National Police HQ in Poland

Project partner(s):

Main National Geodesist office in Poland

Project description:

The project of NSTM, as the first in the Polish Police history, was preceded by vast consultations within the society. On the basis of propositions reported during discussions about the shape of the NSTM a set of 25 categories of most commonly reported threats has been developed. This solution, activates the society in a matter unknown before, in order to make the society also responsible for the condition of security in the living area. For this purpose, the interactive part of the NSTM had been created, and every person using it, with no charge, may anonymously indicate a place where the threat occurs which in his/her assumption does negatively affect the sense of security. The process of indicating a threat on to the NSTM should not last longer than a dozen or so seconds. The user, after choosing one from 25 threats available in the catalog, should indicate the localisation where it is present and then, with the ZGŁOŚ (report) button presents the threat on the map. The reporting person may also add details of the threat occurrence (i.e. a photo). The Police does ensure, that every such indication will be taken care of with proper seriousness and the effect of this action will be visible on the map. The Police via Internet, supported by modern technology, does reach to a vast population of receivers.

Information gathered by NSTM are the basis of defining courses of action of different units within the uniformed (prevention) Police service, including community officers, and also indicate eventual needs of changes within the organisational structure of the Police.

Objectives project:

According to the assumptions the NSTM should:

- act as an information exchange platform between the Police and the society regarding threats,
- reflect threats already indicated and registered by law enforcement and other services,
- present threats noticed by the society – activation of local societies,
- serve for verification and optimisation of present organisational structures of the Police,
- enable „verification” of survey results on sense of security of citizens published by public poll research centres compared to own data and analysis from the Police.

Project outcome:

Examples of NSTM outcome:

- improvement of road traffic safety by:
  - correction of traffic organisation and modification of road infrastructure,
  - modification and improvement of road signs on Polish roads,
  - temporary elimination from road traffic of unsafe drivers, who flagrantly infringe road safety by excess speeding,
- taking up actions aimed at eliminating the common occurrence of drinking alcohol in prohibited areas;
- taking up protective measures towards homeless persons, beggars or minors endangered by demoralisation (i.e. using intoxicants, acts of vandalism etc.)

The establishment of the 'National Security Threat Map' has enabled citizens to report on a variety of threats which assist the Police in identifying issues that might not otherwise be reported. The guaranteed response is an assurance to the public that their concerns will be addressed.

Start and end project:

Introduced on October 5 2016, in use since then.

Funding (total budget and type of funding (e.g. ISEC, EUCPN Fund,...)):

The project has been carried out by the Police in cooperation with the Main National Geodesist office in Poland. For this reason, no financial costs were borne by the Police. The only costs covered by the National Police HQ – 15 thousand PLN were paid for the advancement of the NSTM (i.e. for posters, leaflets, gadgets for children – balloons, reflective pendants etc.)

Save Gordon!

Project submitter (Member State):

Project leader(s):

Project partner(s):

Police, Elementary schools, Secondary schools

Project description:

“Save Gordon!” is a crime prevention program based on experiential education developed by the Crime Prevention Subdivision of Zala County Police Headquarters in the framework of a project financed by the National Crime Prevention Council called “Network for safety”. The idea of the program is based on the experience that in a world full of information and stimulus it is hard to achieve objectives with preventive trainings in schools. Previously it was easy to attract the attention of the students with topics like drugs and crimes, but now all the information is available on the internet. With transforming the prevention topics into a playful form, we try to regain the attention of the children.

The concept of the program is based on the popular “escape games” because in our point of view information can better be provided through this communication channel to the age group of 10-14. In the program there are hidden information about certain topics of crime prevention and after the program students are more open to listen to police officers.

When planning the program we concentrated on cooperative working methods. In team work children can achieve goals with helping each other and not with rivalry. Team work requires taking responsibility for a common goal – with all its advantages and difficulties. Students work off a given topic together, they share the information and learning experiences with each other. They succeed and fail together and learn how to handle it.

Objectives project:

- We can distinguish 3 main objectives within the project:
- to deepen the students’ knowledge and understanding of cyber crimes
- to encourage students to think about what they can do to increase their online security

- to build better communities in the classroom by playing a game together

Project outcome:

We have trained 75 experts so far and we constantly get invitations from schools to hold pilot classes at their institution.

The National Crime Prevention Council of Hungary (NBT) tries to transfer new knowledge to people not only in a traditional way but also in an interactive, playful form. Uniquely in Hungary, the new project of the NBT was created by a modern mobile technology. This new application is called „Házórző” (Homewatch). The program consists of a 3D game, a test which assesses the safety level of our property and also of a notebook about the protection of our home containing the most important information on the topic. The goal of the 3D game is to keep the burglar from breaking into a house by answering different protection related questions (e.g. What kind of fence does the house have? Is there an alarm in the house?) Depending on the responses the burglar gets closer and closer to the house. A questionnaire about the safety of our property is also part of the application. After answering the questions the application give suggestions on how to protect our home better.

The “Házórző” (Homewatch) application entertains, teaches, and helps the user at once. It can be used long-term and it can be developed as well. The application can only be downloaded in Hungarian from Google Play and from the App Store.
